1 Introduction

Partage Plus will publish more than 75,000 images and object descriptions in Europeana by the end of February 2014. It will provide essential access to Art Nouveau aesthetic invention and production through bringing together collections from 17 European nations. According to the artists' ambition to exceed the limits of traditional academic art genres the spectrum of Art Nouveau object types mirrors the extension of the artists' fields of activities and these collections often feature a wide variety of content.

This deliverable demonstrates how this varied content can be brought together through WP 3, which concentrates on enabling partners' metadata for optimized retrieval of the project content within Europeana. The focus of this deliverable is delivering a multilingual terminology of Art Nouveau ‘micro’ object types for partners.

2 Partage Plus Metadata Enrichment

2.1 Background

Use of common standards for object descriptions within Partage Plus partners' content with regard to the structure of metadata and compulsory core cataloguing fields, are a precondition for enabling the interoperability of metadata from different sources to be linked for research within an internet portal like Europeana.

As an authoritative standard for the cataloguing of works of art is still desideratum as art collections' metadata is diverse in structure and use of vocabulary. Thus retrieval is often limited mainly to the relationships associated to the artist, and even for these retrieval results depend strongly of the use of the same or different name variants for the same person (see Figure 1).

2.2 Role of the deliverable in the project

Partage Plus joins content from 21 European organisations; some partners are cooperating with additional partners: ICCU (2) and UNIMAR (5). Therefore, the metadata from 26 collections has to be linked to enable the project content to be ingested into Europeana. To do this, all metadata has to be revised and homogenised through creating consistent terminologies. This is being developed in WP 3 and will provide multilingual research facilities through the contribution of all partners, lead by UNIMAR. All partners will enrich their metadata using the Partage Plus Vocabulary.

The Deliverable D3.1 'Micro Object Type Terminology' (D3.1) consists of 49 multilingual concepts for the description of object types. According to the Description of Work, Task 3.2, the number of concepts has been limited to a maximum of 50 in order to make sure that the vocabulary will be useful for a large number of object descriptions. Interoperability and usefulness to Europeana is being achieved by providing the terms in all the languages (16) of the content providers of the project: Catalan, Croatian, Czech, Dutch, English, Finnish, French, German, Hungarian, Italian, Norwegian, Polish, Portuguese, Slovenian, Spanish and Swedish.

All the vocabulary components that will be created within this work package by UNIMAR will be done through discussion with all project partners. They will refer to the mandatory core cataloguing fields of the Partage Plus metadata structure which has been defined in collaboration of UNIMAR and NTUA, as it is connected with tasks in both WP 2 and 3 as an intermediate basic element for metadata enrichment.

The vocabulary created for Partage Plus content is being published on the project website for free reuse. Descriptions of Art Nouveau objects in collections outside of the project may benefit from the Partage Plus vocabulary, e.g. records of Art Nouveau objects already existing in Europeana may be revised in order to track and retrieve a much larger amount of Art Nouveau related objects which are not retrievable at present due to lack of consistent terminology.

2.3 Approach

Initial input for the vocabulary was given by all partners at the Kick-off Meeting in Budapest in March 2012 (M01 / Task 3.1). The majority of project partners expressed their need for a project vocabulary that would cover more than just the data categories foreseen in the tasks of WP 3. As a result, UNIMAR aims to support these additional demands and is working on the development of an extended vocabulary with regard to the optimization of retrieval conditions of the project content within Europeana.

Based on the Draft version of the ‘Micro’ Object Type Terms (M05) which has been revised by the project partners the final version has been discussed and signed off by the 1st PMB meeting in Marburg, hosted by UNIMAR, on 06/09/2012 (M07). The vocabulary then has been translated by all partners to their languages (M09).

The final selection of 49 concepts for indexing object types reflects the spectrum of Partage Plus partners’ contribution of content as listed in the DOW. Partners will enrich their metadata starting in M10.

For the development of the Partage Plus vocabulary Getty Thesaurus of Art and Architecture (AAT)¹ has been used as reference as it is the most differentiated tool for cataloguing works of art available at present. Many museums are already using the AAT for their cataloguing of works of art. Therefore for all concepts of the Partage Plus Object Type Terminology the correspondent concept in the AAT is recorded, an exact match could be found for each of the 49 concepts.

UNIMAR reuses the vocabulary management tool xTree developed by digiCULT² which was resp. is also in use in the EU-funded projects ATHENA³ and Linked Heritage⁴. The translations have been integrated to the vocabulary in x-Tree defining at least one preferred term per language for all concepts according to the delivery of the partners’ translations. For the German translation the controlled vocabulary of the GND⁵ has been consulted.

The vocabulary is provided in three different formatting in order to support its use for the metadata enrichment by the project partners and beyond: Firstly, as an overview of what is in the vocabulary, all concepts are listed in this document with their preferred and alternative labels in 16 different languages, their hierarchical relationships and their reference to the AAT. Secondly the full representation in SKOS/RDF⁶ is provided as the main means for automated import and/or use of the vocabulary in local collections management systems as well as online environments such as the Europeana portal itself. Finally a spreadsheet of all concepts with their identifiers and multilingual labels is included so that its use in any other software environment without SKOS support is facilitated.

2.4 Structure of the deliverable

The Deliverable D3.1 contains three different formattings of the Art Nouveau Micro Object Type terminology, all generated from the xTree tool:

- 1) List of concepts in hierarchical structure
- 2) SKOS/RDF representation
- 3) Spreadsheet for facilitating its use for partners without SKOS support in their collection management system.

4 Conclusion

4.1 Results

The Deliverable D3.1 is the first component that has been developed by UNIMAR in dialogue with all partners in order to provide concepts for the multilingual metadata enrichment of Partage Plus content. Referring to the data category of object types the vocabulary is strictly limited to 50 concepts in order to guarantee that these terms will not be too specified but will be valuable for a great many of object descriptions. UNIMAR provides the Deliverable D3.1 in three different formatting: as list of concepts in hierarchical structure, as SKOS/RDF representation and as spreadsheet for facilitating its use for partners without SKOS support in their collection management system.

4.2 Impact

The Art Nouveau ‘Micro’ Object Type Terminology will be used by all partners to enrich the metadata of the content digitized in Partage Plus and thereby foster multilingual retrieval opportunities of the Partage Plus Art Nouveau content within the Europeana portal. From the Partage Plus website access to Europeana will be enabled by using the Micro Object Type terminology for navigation. By publishing and promoting the terminology for free reuse the enrichment of further Art Nouveau content in Europeana can easily be achieved which will considerably improve consistency of retrieval results on Art Nouveau content.
